Things to do to Take Care of Yourself

Realize that grieving your loved one is a very emotional and exhausting process, but it is part of your healing.

You will get through it.

- Be realistic – accept your limitations and give yourself time to grieve
- Practice healthy living – drink water, exercise, eat healthily, and get plenty of sleep
- Develop a network of people – in addition to family members – who can be supportive of you
- Keep a journal about your feelings
- Accept comfort and help from others and talk to someone you trust about your feelings
- Postpone major decisions
- Avoid abusing alcohol or medication
- Become involved in your local place of worship. Speak with your faith or spiritual leader about your grief and stress
- Seek out the support of a therapist as a gift to yourself
- BREATHE! Take a breather – literally: 15 minutes each day

The District of Columbia Homicide Coalition

District of Columbia Homicide Coalition

The D.C. Homicide Coalition is a group of non-profit agencies and community groups that provide leadership and resources to secondary victims of homicide. These organizations have partnered with government agencies to identify gaps in the services available to individuals, families, and communities who have experienced the loss of a loved one to a homicide in the District of Columbia; facilitate the access to and increase use of such services; and share and publicize information and available resources to affected communities and individuals. The DC Homicide Resource Guide is part of the Coalition's efforts to facilitate the use of available services.

District of Columbia Crime Victim's Bill of Rights

A crime victim has the following rights:

1. The right to be treated with fairness and with respect for the victim's dignity and privacy
2. The right to be reasonably protected from the accused offender
3. The right to be notified of court proceedings
4. The right to be present at all public court proceedings related to the offense unless the court determines that testimony by the victim would be materially affected if the victim heard other testimony at trial
5. The right to confer with attorney for the Government in the case
6. The right to restitution
7. The right to information about the conviction, sentencing, imprisonment, and release of the offender

Federal Crime Victim's Bill of Rights

A crime victim has the following rights:

- The right to be reasonably protected from the accused.
- The right to reasonable, accurate, and timely notice of any public court proceeding, or any parole proceeding, involving the crime or of any release or escape of the accused.
- The right not to be excluded from any such public court proceeding, unless the court, after receiving clear and convincing evidence, determines that testimony by the victim would be materially altered if the victim heard other testimony at that proceeding.
- The right to be reasonably heard at any public proceeding in the district court involving release, plea, sentencing, or any parole proceeding.
- The reasonable right to confer with the attorney for the Government in the case.
- The right to full and timely restitution as provided in law.
- The right to proceedings free from unreasonable delay.
- The right to be treated with fairness and with respect for the victim's dignity and privacy.

Crime Victims Compensation Program (CVCP)

Superior Court of the District of Columbia

D.C. Court Building A
515 5th Street, N.W., Room 104
Washington, D.C. 20001
Phone: (202) 879 - 4216
Fax: (202) 879 - 4230
Website: www.dccourts.gov

The CVCP assists victims and their families with the financial burden brought about by the tragic occurrence and aftermath of violent crime. The CVCP provides reimbursement or direct payment to providers for services necessary as a result of crime for secondary victims (a close family or household member) that are not covered by sources such as private insurance, medical aid programs, or other benefit programs. A maximum of $25,000 per claim can be paid for:

- Medical treatment and medications
- Mental Health Counseling (up to $6,000 for children and $3,000 for adults)
- Funeral and Burial Costs (up to $6,000)
- Loss of Wages (80% of net income up to one year or $10,000 for lost wages)
- Cleaning up of a crime scene (up to $1,000)
- Replacement value of clothing held as evidence (up to $100)
- Reimbursement for car rental while vehicle is being held (up to $2,000)
- Temporary Emergency Shelter (up to $3,000) where necessary
- Temporary Moving Expenses (up to $1,500) where necessary

A victim is a person who suffered personal injury or death in the District of Columbia, or is a resident who was injured as a result of terrorism outside of the United States.

A secondary victim is a close family or household member of the victim.

Police reports must have been filed within 7 days of the crime.

Law enforcement agencies were reasonably provided with information and all necessary cooperation was given.

Claimant can not have participated in, consented to, or provoked the crime that is the basis of the claim.

An application must be filed with the Compensation Program within one year of the crime, or one year of learning of the program.

Common Reactions Following the Homicide of a Loved One

Feelings and behavioral reactions come and go throughout the grieving process.

- Intrusive thoughts about the murder
- Dreaming about death, nightmares about the person and death details
- Having headaches/stomach aches
- Avoiding any reminders of the death
- Having trouble sleeping/scared to go sleep/wanting to sleep a lot
- Feeling guilty: “I could have prevented this;” “It was my fault”
- Feeling numb
- Feeling angry, irritable, or confused – quick to get into a fight
- Suicidal thoughts and feelings
- Difficulty concentrating on work/school
- Hypervigilance, easily startled
- Feeling helpless and/or powerless
- Wanting to be with the person who was killed

The Georgia Avenue/Rock Creek East Family Support Collaborative is one of seven Healthy Families Thriving Communities Collaboratives. It provides a variety of direct services to families, including case management, housing support, information and referral.

Case management involves coordinating services aimed at strengthening, preserving and supporting families. These services include: helping families with finding housing, paying utility bills and other needs. Case management involves a Family Support Worker or Social workers coming to the home of our families to assess their overall needs.

Housing support includes assisting families with a range of housing needs to include programs to locate permanent housing for homeless families. Housing support also involves helping families with rental assistance.

Information and referral services links families to agencies and organizations that address a variety of needs. In many instances this involves referrals for medical care, employment searches, substance or mental health treatment, child care and adult education.

The Fatherhood Initiative is a community outreach program that promotes early and continued father involvement in the lives of children. Workshops are conducted to build fathers' employability and link them to a range of services related to a healthy lifestyle. Participants receive books and tools to continue to honing their fatherhood skills. The Parent Empowerment Program (PEP) offers parents information, training and skill building on various topics as well as parenting workshops. This program uses a multifaceted, holistic approach. The collaborative also offer a resource room is available for parents to get information, books and videos to strengthen their skills.

Y-Trip is a truancy prevention program in collaboration with the D.C. public schools to help families who have children that have missed more than fifteen days of school. This program is school-based.

The mission of the Council is to provide leadership and direction regarding the development and implementation of seven "Collaboratives" - a citywide neighborhood-based family support system, which are listed separately in this section of the DC Homicide Resource Guide. The Council enhances each Collaborative and the neighborhoods they serve by uniting all partners into a cooperative effort dedicated to improving the quality of life for the residents of the District of Columbia.

The Council's key functions include:

- Working with CFSA to expand neighborhood services to families;
- Advocating on behalf of the Collaboratives to local and federal policy makers;
- Facilitating partnerships with District public agencies;
- Providing training and technical assistance to the Collaboratives;
- Documentation, quality assurance evaluation; and
- Raising funds and leveraging resources to support the work of the Collaboratives.

General Service Providers

All Collaboratives provide three basic types of services:

Family Stabilization

Family stabilization services involves the provision of interventions across the service continuum aimed at resolving immediate crisis, identifying and linking to needed resources, and/or providing the support and supervision necessary to achieve permanency goals and family well-being.

Information & Referral

Information and Referral Services provide information about, and/or referrals to, community resources to meet immediate and long-term needs such as job placement, legal services, food and transportation, mental health services, domestic violence services, shelter care, health and medical services, and housing assistance programs.

Community Case Services

Each Collaborative is engaged in building the capacity of their target neighborhoods by offering technical assistance, training, resource development, and small grants to their community partners.

Supportive Case Services

A CFSA social worker has responsibility for case management functions in these cases. Collaborative staff will be engaged to provide varying levels of support to the CFSA worker to assist in stabilizing the family. Collaborative staff assists the worker by providing the core services, which include housing support, visitation and employment support.

Youth Aftercare Support

Youth Aftercare provides community-based case management and supportive services for young adults who are exiting the foster care system.

Community Capacity Building

Each Collaborative is engaged in building the capacity of their target neighborhoods by offering technical assistance, training, resource development, and small grants to their community partners.

DC Fatherhood Initiative

The DC Fatherhood Initiative seeks to expand the array of neighborhood-based services and supports available to fathers, prepare fathers to play a more positive role in the lives of their children, and encourage fathers to provide financial support for their children.

Second Responders Initiative

The Second Responders Program was created to diminish the effects of violence on youth, families and communities in Wards 7 and 8 through early and coordinated crisis intervention.

Youth Truancy Diversion Project (Y-TRIP)

The Truancy Diversion Project seeks to reduce the rate of truancy at six junior high/middle schools in the District. The project provides intensive attendance monitoring and family based-services to young people identified by the target schools' administrations.

The Wendt Center for Loss and Healing is a premier resource for addressing grief in adults and children. They provide mental health services, training, and education to ease the impact of illness, loss, and bereavement

- Professional, licensed and experienced counselors work with children, teens, and adults individually, as families, and in support groups to ease the pain of loss.
- Camp Forget-Me-Not
Camp Forget-Me-Not is a free weekend, sleep-away grief camp that gives children an opportunity to enter a safe space—away from their everyday lives—to gently explore the normal process of grief. At Camp Forget-Me-Not, each Camper is paired with an adult Buddy for the entire weekend. With a mixture of traditional camp-like activities and grief work, Camp Forget Me-Not provides a safe and enjoyable environment where each child's self expression is heard, valued and honored.
- Children's Services
Through play — the universal language of children — children are able to effectively express their feelings. Wendt Center teams of therapists, interns and volunteers provide play therapy at our offices, and travel to local schools, community centers, and other social service agencies throughout the metro area to facilitate onsite support for children.
- Crisis Response
Wendt Center counselors serve as a steady support to children, adults, families and caregivers affected by local and national crises. These have included September 11, the sniper killings in the fall of 2002 in the metropolitan Washington area, workplace and school crises, and neighborhood violence. • Crime Victim Services
The Wendt Center's Homicide Outreach Project Empowering Survivors (HOPES) Program provides comfort and support for families, individuals, and communities coping with homicide-related deaths. This collection of services is especially designed to meet the needs of people coping with homicide. Services are provided by licensed clinicians, program staff, and carefully trained volunteers with expertise in the areas of trauma, grief and loss, and child and family therapy.
- Recover Program
Seven days a week, 52 weeks of the year, Wendt Center counselors are at the District of Columbia Office of the Chief Medical Examiner, the morgue, to provide counseling and support to families who must come to complete the identification process of their deceased loved one.. Our counselors provide emotional and practical support with a special emphasis on including grief care for the children affected by these deaths.
- Training and Education
Our Training and Education Program offers workshops, conferences and other educational forums on a variety of topics related to loss, bereavement, and trauma.

Peaceoholics is non-profit organization that is committed to transforming youth into drug-free and crime-free productive members of their communities. Activities include:

- Designing & Operating Youth Programs. Provides services to youth found involved in the District's juvenile justice system in an effort to offer programs to serve as alternatives to detention and prevention to entry into the adult correctional system. Programs focus on a Balanced and Restorative Justice approach and will teach young people to understand the impact of their actions of their community and to offer a means to repair the harm created by illegal activities. In future phases, Peaceoholics will expand programs to include prevention services to include youth at-risk of involvement in the Juvenile Justice System.
- Developing a Network of Peace-Minded Individuals. The Organization will develop a broad national network comprised of the Organization's members and other like-minded persons and organizations. The network will support youth programs, share information regarding peace, health and youth issues and coordinate periodic events for the membership and targeted population. Members of the Board and other volunteers will coordinate such efforts and events. The Organization will also establish sister organizations and affiliates throughout the country and the world to serve a wide and diverse constituency. The goal is to promote peace and change community norms regarding risky behaviors and conflict resolution through peer education. The time volunteered will encourage youth and adults to work cooperatively with other persons throughout the country who are dedicated to education and community involvement.
- Participating in Youth Events Sponsored by Schools, Government Agencies & Non-Profit Organizations. Program staffs efforts may be spent conducting seminars and lectures to various groups and organizing events related to the empowerment of youth. Technical assistance includes the provision of workshops, trainings, and facilitations.
- Training and Workshops. Peaceoholics reaches out to various organizations and institutions providing vocational training and relevant workshops for all willing participants. Areas covered will include life skills, and industry specific coursework in computers training, language based training, and financial management.

ROOT (Reaching Out to Others Together) Inc. is a Washington, DC based nonprofit organization committed to advocacy and intervention on behalf of homicide victims and their families. Its goals include;

- To create the "political will" in Congress, State Legislatures, and City Councils, to substantively address gun violence, homicide, drugs, gangs, crime, and poverty through legislation and community action
- To create "true" political power for communities to participate in problem solving, program development, and the legislative process, which is essential to democracy
- To create communities that are economically viable, self-sustaining, productive, safe, healthy and in which families and children believe in a future
- To create the beloved community that Martin Luther King dreamed of in order to transform America towards a moral society
- Legislation: To generate legislation in Congress, State Legislatures and City Councils, and state legislatures from the civil that will address the root causes of gun violence, violence in general, homicide, drugs, crime, and poverty
- Communities' Perspective: To generate legislation that gets to the root causes of violence and that accurately reflects the problems and solutions of the broader civil society, in particular, those communities impacted by gun violence
- Legislative Hearings: To conduct Congressional, State Legislature and City Council town hall meetings in local community schools and community centers that publicly examine the epidemic of gun violence, and to listen to successful solutions that have a proven track record in reducing gun violence and violence in general
- Citizen Congressional/Legislative Hearings: To hold 1000 Citizen Congressional/Legislative Hearings on the root causes of gun violence, violence and abuse in general over a two year period in order to create awareness and stimulate concrete legislative solutions among elected officials at all levels of government
- GAO Study on Gun Violence: To have a GAO study in Congress in order to accurately assess the epidemic of gun violence in America, how it is impacting children and families, and programs that are successfully working to reduce gun violence. GAO Studies on Public Safety's of unhealthy and unsafe communities and viable proven solutions: To commission other GAO studies in the following areas as they relate to unhealthy and unsafe communities and programs that are successfully working to insure public safety
 - Domestic violence
 - Parental, elderly and child abuse (physical, mental, emotional, economic)
 - Gangs
 - Drugs
 - Homelessness
 - Incarceration and re-entry
- Bi-Partisan Congressional Blue Ribbon Commission: To create a permanent bi-partisan "Blue Ribbon Commission On Gun Violence and Public Safety" in Congress that will annually issue a report to Congress on the epidemic of gun violence in America, its root causes, and successful models and solutions that have worked in communities to stem the tide of gun violence and create safe communities.

Since its genesis in August 1999, the East of the River Clergy, Police, Community Partnership (ERCPCP) has made dramatic strides in reducing violent crime among youths in the Southeast area of Washington, D.C. The Southeast section has the city's highest rates of homicide, highest rates of teen pregnancy, and lowest rates of educational achievement. The collaboration among churches, law enforcement, social service agencies and area residents holds considerable promise to begin renewal and rebirth in neighborhoods east of the Anacostia River.

ERCPCP's mission is to reverse the incidence of violent crimes, reduce the rate of recidivism, and foster educational achievement. It works with youth already in the criminal justice system or at greatest risk of dropping out of school. An intervention based model, ERCPCP seeks to change the direction of youth who perpetrate violent crimes and serve as new recruits for violence and failure because of educational dysfunction and disinterest.

ERCPCP provides some direct services, but more so works with numerous community partners, coordinating service delivery and providing intake and referrals of at risk youth.

Violence Intervention Partnership

The Violence Intervention Partnership (VIP) is a public safety initiative involving a collaborative effort by community leaders, law enforcement officers, government agencies, faith-based institutions, community-based organizations, educators, and social outreach workers. Its mission is to reduce violence among at-risk youth and young adults in communities east of the Anacostia River by developing innovative law enforcement, conflict resolution, and intervention and prevention strategies.

Breaking Down Barriers

ERCPCP sponsors activities to increase interaction, understanding and unity between youth and other sectors of the community.

Clergy Response Team

ERCPCP Sponsors teams of clergy and other faith-based individuals that reach out to the families, next of kin and other secondary victims of violent crimes and homicide. Its purpose is to provide aid, counseling and assistance to victims, witnesses and their families and to intervene in the occurrence of retaliation.

Benning Terrace

In response to the increased incidents of auto theft and vehicular homicide occurring in the Benning Terrace/Benning Heights area in August, 2003, East of the River Clergy, Police, Community Partnership (ERCPCP) assumed a coordinating role for several organizations and groups who sought positive change for those living in Benning Terrace. Over the past 4 years, a myriad of programs, services, and resources have impacted this public housing community, helping it to become a safe, healthy, and self-sustaining neighborhood.

Henson Ridge Youth Leadership Council

The Henson Ridge Youth Leadership Council (HRYLC) has been designed to work with a group of ten carefully selected youth, to train them in leadership skills, life-skills, and teamwork development, through the implementation of a curriculum, workshops, and fieldtrips; subsequently empowering them to be leaders in their communities.

Frederick Douglass Memorial Weed & Seed

ERCPCP coordinates this Weed & Seed community where law enforcement agencies and prosecutors cooperate in "weeding out" violent criminals and drug abusers and public agencies and community-based private organizations collaborate to "seed" much-needed human services. A community-oriented policing component bridges the weeding and seeding elements.

Woodland Terrace

The Woodland Terrace Public Housing Safety Initiative works to meet the needs of families in the Woodland Terrace community. This is done by identifying young people 8-27 years of age, , developing assets for positive development via community strengthening activities, and sustaining programming by creating collaborations and partnerships with other service and community organizations.

RE-ENTRY PROGRAMS

CSOSA Faith Based Reintegration Initiative

Introduced in 2001, the Faith Based Reintegration Initiative aims to pair men and women returning from incarceration with pro-social persons from the faith community to assist in the reentrants' transition into the community. In partnership with numerous churches in Wards 7 & 8 and Maryland, over 200 men and women have been successfully supported through this initiative.

Housing Program

ERCPCP in partnership with Johnson Memorial Baptist Church (JMBC) has moved into the housing arena with the intent of providing transitional housing to its participants and affordable housing to citizens east of the river. Our housing efforts include the purchase and renovation of a 14 unit apartment building in Congress Heights which is currently being used to house recently released re-entrants.

The Office of Victim Services (OVS) is responsible for coordinating and supporting victim services within the District by working with DC government agencies and community-based organizations to develop, expand, and improve services that are provided to victims of violent crime. OVS also provides information and recommendations to the Mayor regarding the needs of victims and best practices for meeting those needs.

Mayor's Citywide Call Center – 311

202-727-1000

The citywide call center program primarily supports the Citywide Strategic Priority area of Making Government Work. The purpose of the Citywide Call Center is to provide a "one stop" service experience for constituents, residents, and visitors in their search for DC government services, numbers, and information. The Call Center is designed to make the public's interaction with the city government less frustrating.

The designated telephone number for the District of Columbia's Citywide Call Center is 311. The Office of Unified Communications oversees the designated call center for all 311 calls and for all District emergency 911 calls.

Dial 311, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, to request scheduled services such as trash removal, potholes, bulk pickups, and recycling. Residents may also use this number to report a missed scheduled service, inquire about city agency phone numbers and hours of operation, and pursue other customer service-related items.

Website: www.ojp.usdoj.gov/ovc

The Office for Victims of Crime (OVC) was established by the 1984 Victims of Crime Act (VOCA) to oversee diverse programs that benefit victims of crime. OVC provides substantial funding to state victim assistance and compensation programs—the lifeline services that help victims to heal. The agency supports trainings designed to educate criminal justice and allied professionals regarding the rights and needs of crime victims. OVC also sponsors an annual event in April to commemorate National Crime Victims Rights Week (NCVRW). OVC is one of five bureaus and four offices with grant-making authority within the Office of Justice Programs, U.S. Department of Justice. OVC's Divisions include:

- Terrorism and International Victim Assistance Services Division (TIVASD) (formerly Terrorism and International Victims Unit, TIVU)
- Training & Information Dissemination Division (TIDD) (formerly Technical Assistance, Publications, and Information Resources Unit, TAPIR)
- Federal Assistance Division (FAD) (formerly Federal Crime Victims Division, FCVD) and American Indian/Alaskan Natives
- State Compensation and Assistance Division (SCAD)

Funeral • Cremation • Burial Assistance

District of Columbia Burial Assistance Program Fact Sheet

What does the Burial Assistance Program provide?

The Burial Assistance Program provides up to a maximum of $800 toward the cost of a burial of $450 toward the cost of a cremation. Assistance is provided if the deceased is determined eligible and if the total cost of the burial or cremation is no more than $2000. The total cost of a burial for a deceased person requiring an oversized casket cannot be more than $3000. Burial Assistance payments are made directly to the contract funeral home selected by the deceased's next-of-kin.

Who is eligible?

An individual may be eligible if the money available to the deceased on the date of death does not exceed $800. This amount includes any remaining money from banking and checking accounts, Social Security checks, final paychecks, etc. When determining eligibility, the income and assets of his/her spouse (if married) or parents (if a minor child) will be considered. To be eligible, the deceased must be a resident of the District of Columbia, even if not living in D.C. at the time of death. Also, burial or cremation services must be arranged through a funeral home under contract with the District and the deceased's body must not have been released to a non contract funeral home at the time of application.

What funeral homes are under contract to the District for this program?

Austin Royster Funeral Home	202-829-9767	House of Williams	202-723-6777
Bacon Funeral Home	202-332-3352	McLaughlin Funeral Home	202-889-7111
Pope Funeral Home	202-583-5400
Chambers Funeral Home and Crematorium	301-565-3600

How do I apply?

Come to the Income Maintenance Administration (IMA) Service Center at 645 H Street, NE between 8:15 am and 4:45 pm, Monday through Friday. You will be asked to complete an application and provide information to determine if the deceased is eligible.

What should I bring when I apply?

Please bring document that:

- Verify income and assets such as pay stubs and bank account statements, for the deceased and his/her spouse if married (or parents, if minor);
- Verify that the deceased is a District resident (e.g. lease, utility bills) and
- Establish your relationship to the deceased (e.g. birth certificates, marriage certificates)

Where can I get more information?

FUNERAL HOME TIPS FOR PURCHASING SERVICES

- Shop around in advance. Compare prices from at least two funeral homes. Remember that you can supply your own casket or urn.
- Ask for a price list. The law requires funeral homes to give you written price lists for products and services.
- Resist pressure to buy good and services you don't really want or need.
- Avoid emotional overspending. It's not necessary to have the fanciest casket or the most elaborate funeral to properly honor a loved one.
- Recognize your rights. Laws regarding funerals and burials vary from state to state. It's a smart move to know which goods or services the law requires you to purchase and which are optional.
- Apply the same smart shopping techniques you use for other major purchases. You can cut costs by limiting the viewing to one day or one hour before the funeral, and by dressing your loved on in a favorite outfit instead of costly burial clothing.
- Plan ahead. It allows you to do comparison shopping with out time constraints, creates an opportunity for family discussion, and lifts some of the burden from your family.

The Doe Network is a volunteer organization devoted to assisting Law Enforcement in solving cold cases concerning Unexplained Disappearances and Unidentified Victims from North America, Australia and Europe. It is our mission to give the nameless back their names and return the missing to their families. We hope to accomplish this mission in three ways; by giving the cases exposure on our website, by having our volunteers search for clues on these cases as well as making possible matches between missing and unidentified persons and lastly through attempting to get media exposure for these cases that need and deserve it.

We cooperate with several Missing Person, Law Enforcement agencies and Medical Examiners and strive to work with more in the future.
